DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
  - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 2. Claims 1 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Freeman (US 4,452,381) in view of Jordan (US 3,338,482) and Price (US 5,772,069).

Freeman discloses a container (10) with an elongate, hollow, bent spout. The spout has an opening (channel 34) at a first end and internal threads (18) at a second end, which mate with external threads on the container neck, as shown in Figures 1 and 2. The bent portion of the spout (spout is bent at the base of the pouring spout 30) is less than 1/3rd of the length of the remainder of the spout. The spout includes a gripping area (22) directly beneath the bent portion, which includes finger grips (roughened areas 52). The main body portion of the spout includes an enlarged portion at the second end. The female threaded portion (18) is positioned within the enlarged portion.

Freeman does not disclose that the bent portion of the spout is perpendicular with the longitudinal axis of the bottle. Jordan discloses a spout (15) with a bent portion that is perpendicular with the longitudinal axis of the bottle. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make the spout of Freeman perpendicular, as taught by Jordan, so that the bottle does not have to be tilted as much to pour fluent material from it.

Freeman does not disclose a holder for the container. Price discloses a holder (500) for a container (cup 100). The holder (500) has a mounting bracket (plate 570). The holder (500) has a channel extending circumscribing the bottom of the holder. A flange of the container (cup 100) fits in the channel, as discussed in column 2, lines 23-36. The bottom of the holder (500) has a shape corresponding with the shape of the bottom of the container (cup 100). The bottom of the holder (500) has cutouts between the ribs (562). It would have been obvious to one with ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include a holder for Freeman's container in order to provide a place for the container to rest when not in use, as taught by Price.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1 and 5 have been considered but are most in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Kozlowski discloses a bent spout.
